LONDON'S CATHOLIC MAYOR

Ludicrous and Disorderly Scenes at a Great Anti-Popery Meeting in London.

The Friends of Ald. Knill, Lord Mayor Elect, Carry the Meeting by Storm.

Terrible Fatal Accident at the Ocean Docks, Birkenhead, Near Liverpool.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—An exceedingly lively meeting was held last night in Memory Hall, Farringdon street, under the auspices of the Anti-Popery Society, to protest against the election of Alderman Knill, a Catholic, as Lord Mayor. The chairman of the meeting was Dr. Phillips, who was Knill's chief opponent in the candidacy for the office. Dr. Phillips had to shout at the top of his voice throughout the meeting in order to get a hearing at all, and at times the din was so great that no business could be transacted. In the course of some bitter remarks, Phillips asserted that Knill was an improper person for Lord Mayor, inasmuch as he must obey the orders of the Pope in all things. At this there were cries of "you are a d—d liar, Knill is an honest man." It was evident at an early stage of the proceedings that Knill's friends were in the majority. Several fruitless attempts to eject the disturbers from the body of the hall resulted in fights, during which the proceedings were suspended. A grey-bearded old man gained a hearing long enough to utter a mild protest against the use of profanity, but was quickly howled down. Edward Littleton, one of Phillips' partisans, made a motion that Knill was an unfit person for Lord Mayor. Immediately the uproar was renewed. Mr. Krolle, a merchant, climbed upon the platform and shouted that he had just been robbed of a gold watch. The announcement was greeted with shouts of "serves you right," together with groans and cheers. When he could again make himself heard, Mr. Littleton stated that he had received a letter from Lord Salisbury. This secured the attention of the audience and secured quiet for a moment. Littleton proceeded to explain that he had written his lordship asking whether the action of the Pope in sending the pallium to Archbishop Vaughan, was not in defiance of the laws of England. Lord Salisbury's reply was brief and to the point, being a mere statement that the question was one for lawyers to answer. Roars of laughter followed the reading of the letter, much to the apparent surprise of Mr. Littleton, who evoked new cheers by complaining that Mr. Gladstone, to whom a similar enquiry was addressed, had simply acknowledged the receipt of the letter. Beaufort Moore, president of the Anti-Popery Society, leader of the movement against Knill, and owner of the famous Cheshire Cheese Hostelry, seconded Mr. Littleton's motion declaring the unfitness of Ald. Knill. His utterances were scarcely audible above the din made by the shouts of enquiry as to the price of whiskey and other articles dealt in by Moore. The friends of Knill then took charge off affairs, Captain Salisbury moving as an amendment to Mr. Littleton's motion that Mr. Knill was the fittest possible person for Lord Mayor. The chairman tried to avoid putting the amendment, but was forced to do so, and it was carried by an overwhelming majority, amid frantic cheers by the Knillites and howls of rage from the Anti-Popery faction.

A Murderous Assault.

BRAMPTON, Ont., Oct. 20.—News has reached here of a stabbing affray in the village of Port Credit, whereby Patrick O'Neill made a desperate and unwarranted attempt to sever William Keating's connection with this world. The two men were drinking together when a dispute arose. O'Neill drew a knife, and before anyone could interfere stabbed Keating three different times. His injuries were so terrible that he is not expected to live. The would-be murderer is in jail.

The Alibi Not Proved.

GUELPH, Ont., Oct. 20.—James O'Connor was, at the assizes here, yesterday, convicted of criminally assaulting Florence Marratt, aged 10, though half-a-dozen witnesses swore that the prisoner was not at the place where the offence is said to have occurred. The jury took the other view. O'Connor received a sentence of seven years in Kingston penitentiary. He protested his innocence when sentenced was pronounced.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The London Canadian Gazette makes an obviously official statement to-day. It says that Sir John Abbott, while here mainly for the benefit of his health, will discuss several leading questions which have long been under debate between the Imperial and Canadian Governments. Mr. Foster will consider arrangements with the Dominion financial agents here which terminate this year.

Freaks of Lightning.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 20.—During a severe thunderstorm, while Mr. Edward Austin, his mother and a hired man, Campbell, were seated in the former's house, lightning descended the chimney, smashed the stove to atoms and tore the boots from the feet of all three. The hired man will not recover from the shock, his leg being shattered. Mr. Austin and his mother escaped with a few injuries.

PUBLICATION STOPPED.

The Action of the Printers' Union Causes Vancouver Publishers to Suspend.

The City is Now Without a Local Newspaper and There Will be More Trouble.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 20.—The printers are on strike and the Daily Telegram was not issued this morning, nor will the World be this afternoon and probably no News-Advertiser to-morrow. The local union are seeking to introduce a new scale of pay by which the foremen's wages are increased to $29 a week. An advertisement man must be employed in every office at $24 and the foreman must set no "ads." Prices on table work are also advanced. District Organizer Hawkes arrived from Seattle last night and the Union had a conference with the publishers of the newspapers, who declined to give the advance and threatened to cease publication. The announcement decided on by the publishers, states that the present condition of business tends to lower prices, yet they are willing to pay the old scale, hoping for more prosperous times. They will suspend publication temporarily as it is impossible to continue if the additional expenditure is insisted on. The sympathy of the public is with the publishers.

The May Hunter mystery is causing much excitement and comment now that the case is again before the public. In the police court this morning Pearl Demming, charged with vagrancy was remanded for a week. This woman was arrested, as she was a witness at the inquest and may be wanted if the Beagans come to trial. It has just been ascertained that the ring and brooch seen on Mrs. Beagan cannot be found by the police of Kamloops. It is understood that another woman, named Bertie Kasar, also a witness, is now in Victoria and will at once be brought over here. The Beagans deny having been on the streets on the morning of the 26th, and say they never were at the Eckhoff house. The man and woman are expected to be brought down to-morrow.

A junior Rugby club has been organized and will play Vancouver juniors on Thanksgiving Day. They are anxious to arrange matches at an early day with Victoria.

EVIDENCE ON SMALLPOX.

The Royal Commission Sits Again To-Day to Gather Further Information.

Dr. Milne, City Health Officer, Occupies the Most of the Day Giving Evidence.

He Gives Particulars About the Quarantining and Fumigating Processes.

It was 11:30 before Commissioners Sir M. B. Begbie, C.J., and Dr. Praeger arrived at this morning's meeting of the Royal Commission. When they did arrive Dr. Milne took the stand.

He was health officer of the city of Victoria. As such all cases of contagious diseases should be reported to him, but it was not always done. As a rule the medical men did not report all cases of contagious diseases to him. It is the duty of all persons to report cases. The first case of smallpox to come under his observation was on the 28th of May. In that case the patient went to the Jubilee Hospital. He was returned to his cabin on Herald street by witness' directions and quarantined there. The cabin was between Government and Store streets, on Herald. The patient was alone in his cabin. He had been employed as deck hand on the steamer Yosemite. He handled cargo from Vancouver. There was no quarantine station in the city at the city at the time so he was removed to Albert Head. A police officer watched the house and a man took charge of the patient. The attendant was also sent to Albert Head. The case was a mild one and the patient recovered. After the patient's removal the bedding and all woollen goods in the cabin were burned and the clothing and cabin were properly fumigated. Dr. Helmcken sent the patient to the Jubilee Hospital for some other disease. The next case was a child at St. Louis College, where the patient lived That was during the first week in June. The family was quarantined in the college, which is situated at the corner of Vancouver and Pandora streets. The gates were locked and a guard placed outside. They were supplied with provisions through the guard. The place was quarantined the full length of time. The bedding and some of the clothing were burned, the rest being fumigated. The family was supplied with new clothing. Sulphur fumes were used to fumigate the articles. The child recovered. There were no cases of chicken pox in town at that time to his knowledge. The quarantine was raised during the first week in July. Yellow flags were placed outside the houses in both cases. The next case was reported on the 4th of July. The patient was a man named Sexton. He worked in a livery stable on Johnson street, above Douglas. That is near to 110 Johnson street. The rash was just making its appearance. This case was also a very mild one. The patient was immediately quarantined and sent to Albert Head next morning in an express wagon. He was in bed at the livery stable when witness saw him. An attendant was sent to Albert Head with Sexton. The bedding and articles in the room were burned. In some instances the bedding and clothing were sent to Albert Head with the patients. The cause of the case could not be ascertained. The next case was Miss Bull, of Douglas street. During the same 24 hours several cases were reported. One was Mrs. Niles and the other Mr. Bull's child, who died the next morning. The Bulls lived closed to St. Louis College. Dr. Morrison had been attending the child several days. He, witness, did not see the child. About the same time as the cases of George and Annie Hamilton the girls at the Refuge Home were reported. The girl Georgie died a week later, on the 11th of July. The patients were in the back portion of the building with two attendants. That portion of the building was separate from the front part, so the doors were nailed up. Several old ladies occupied the front parlor of the building. Neither of these cases could be traced. The whole house was quarantined. The girl that died could not be removed, but the other was sent to the Jubilee Hospital. Those who had been quarantined in the house for 12 days were removed to the Ross Bay suspect station. The first 12 cases were sent to Albert Head. The city asked the Dominion Government to allow them to use the old station at Albert Head, but no answer was received. The city, however, started work on a building, but they were served with an injunction. They were also met with an injunction when they tried to erect a building at Ross Bay. The building was being built on the city's property. This procedure occupied about a week. The Albert Head station was too far from town. It was on Friday, July 8th, that the city was prevented from erecting a building on the Indian reserve. The same evening the city commenced work on the buildings at Ross Bay. As soon as work was stopped there, witness and the Mayor waited on the directors of the Jubilee Hospital and secured the directors offer to allow the erection of buildings on the Jubilee Hospital property to be used. The same evening and all day Sunday work on the building was proceeded with. There were some patients at the hospital on Sunday evening. He just said this to show the energy displayed.

The Chief Justice—"The opposition proves that energy was displayed."

Dr. Milne, continued—There were 48 cases in the city on July 18th. He reported daily to Dr. Davie after he was appointed provincial health officer.

The Chief Justice—"I notice that all the cases reported on July 8th were north of Yates and east of Douglas street.

Dr. Milne—"There were very few very few cases in the southern portion of the city. On July 14th there were 56 cases and two deaths took place. There were 16 in the city, 26 at the hospital and 14 at Albert Head. On the 9th of July the city was prevented from sending any more patients to Albert Head. During the week from the 10th to the 17th of July, a cab was procured and the sick were conveyed to the Jubilee Hospital. The suspects were strictly quarantined in their houses, there being a man on guard day and night."

The Chief Justice—"Was it not much more expensive to guard all the houses than it would have been to guard one station?"

Dr. Milne—"There were no cases for a number of days after the patients were removed to the Jubilee Hospital, showing that the quarantine in the city was perfect."

Ae approved of quarantine in every sense, and thought all proper regulations should be thoroughly carried out. Isolation and vaccination were the only means of stamping out smallpox. He put quarantine on the Clarence immediately on the report being sent to him.

A quarantine was placed on the house as soon as the Nelson case was discovered on the 6th. The statements of Foster are misleading when he says no quarantine was established on his place. His case was a mild one and witness said no quarantine was necessary. Still the bedding was destroyed, the clothing fumigated and the cabin locked up.

A question as to when the quarantine was put on the Clarence arose. A reference to reporter Potts' notes showed that Minkhouse and MacWinn had testified that it was on Saturday, July 9th. Dr. Milne thought that it was on the preceding Wednesday, the 6th, when Nelson was removed and asked that the man he had on guard at the time of the removal be called later to clear the point.

The Chief Justice, commenting on the matter, said that so many cases came along together that it was almost impossible to do all that was required. There was no way to handle the patients and even if the health officer ordered a quarantine, there were so many places requiring it that he could not personally see that it was attended to. In answer to a question as to the wagon used to take people to Albert Head, the doctor said that a covered express wagon was first hired and was used for no other purpose. He asked that Sanitary Officer Bailey be called to explain the matter in regard to the young man Short from Swan Lake, the doctor said the boy's father brought him to town in a buggy, and took him to St. Joseph's Hospital, but the Sisters were suspicious and declined to admit him. The father called witness and he pronounced the case smallpox and told the father to take him to Albert Head. He also told the father at the time of the danger from infection.

"We afterwards hired another wagon. The teams were kept isolated at first, and then when the Jubilee Hospital station was established they were kept on the station. We had a guard night and day on quarantined houses. On some of them we had two in the day and two at night. They did their work well as far as I know, and maintained a strict quarantine. One guard on View street was treated very well by his prisoners one night and the next day we discharged him. None of his prisoners escaped."

In describing the method of fumigation the doctor said that bedding was taken out and burned, and then all the clothing was hung up. The windows were closed, then sulphur, about 4 lbs. to 100 cubic feet, burned. This was burned over steam to disseminate it. Even the key holes were stopped up. The process lasted from 12 to 24 hours. Mr. Bailey and his assistants, Messrs. Young and Carter had charge of the fumigation. The process, witness thought the most effective outside machinery. They usually treated blankets with bi-chloride of mercury and then steeped them in hot water after burning the sulphur near them. The case of the deckhand on the Yosemite on May 28, which was the first they had, witness attributed the cause to handling cargo at Vancouver. The steamer was there only a few hours and he had no opportunity to mingle with people in the city.

It is not surprising after 200 passengers had been landed from the Empress of Japan, on which steamer there was a case, that there was an epidemic. He thought the Japan's Japanese passengers should have been quarantined as well as the Chinese.

The Chief Justice had heard that there were generally 1500 cases of smallpox in the hospital at Singapore. He wondered if that would not scare a Mayor and Board of Aldermen.

Dr. Milne—The fact that the Empress of Japan landed a case at Vancouver was sufficient to cause the epidemic in British Columbia. He would advise the city to obtain a quarantine ground with the necessary buildings. It should be outside the city limits, about four miles from the centre of the city. It should not be further than that from city. The hospital should be 500 yards from any dwelling. To prevent smallpox vaccination should be carried on systematically. All children should be vaccinated about the third month. He would also urge revaccination at puberty. He would urge legislation with that end in view. As many precautions and the same care should be taken in cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria and other infectious diseases. He had seen cases of scarlet fever that, if they had been vaccinated, their parents would much rather have seen them have smallpox. It would be desirable to have two hospitals, one for the ordinary infectious diseases and another for smallpox.

In reference to G. Phillips' evidence, Dr. Milne stated that he did not know the man, but if he had any symptoms of smallpox he would have detained him. A doctor was not justified in sending a patient to quarantine unless he was certain that he had smallpox. The doctor quoted authorities to show that it was not good policy to send a patient to the hospital until the symptoms appeared. The Dominion quar-

CHICAGO IN HER GLORY.

Magnificent Splurge Being Made by the Great Metropolis of Pork and Wind.

A Procession that Throws all Other Parades Well Into the Chilly Shade.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The old adage that "Republics are ungrateful," or for that matter, forgetful, is stamped with the seal of falsity to-day by the metropolis of the west.

Four hundred years have elapsed since the joyful shouts of the Italian explorer announced the discovery of the shores of a new continent, and to-day the event is being re-heralded with the acclamations of the representatives of the eighty millions of people who have made of that unknown land several mighty nations, while honors more than regal are being paid to the memory of Christopher Columbus.

The booming of cannon on the lake front announced the dawn of day, and awakened Chicago's citizens from their slumbers this morning. Not only her citizens, but the great army of guests and friends she has been welcoming since the opening of the week.

The national administration, represented by the vice-president and nearly every member of the President's cabinet, the army and the navy, the judiciary as represented by nearly every member of the Supreme Court of the United States, the states represented by their chief executives, the diplomatic corp, representing the nations of the earth and illustrating in their presence the divine injunction, "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

All through the night and all over the city an army of men have been hard at work giving the finishing touches to the decorations, and the sun peeped forth upon the city bedecked as no city has ever been bedecked before.

Throughout the business districts and extending out to the residence sections on the south, north and west sides, block after block and structure after structure, from the towering skyscraper to the little cottage, is gay with bunting in devices innumerable. Red, white and blue are the predominating colors, but the newly adopted municipal color, terra cotta, is well represented in the background. Pictures, or alleged pictures, of Columbus are to be counted by the hundred. The stores in the centre of the city are especially magnificently dressed, the design being rich in effect and artistic in arrangement. The total expenditure on the part of citizens in placing the city in holiday attire is roughly estimated at a quarter of a million dollars, and the money has been well spent.

The great civic parade was the event of the day. Like everything else, it was on a gigantic scale, the estimate of the total number of individuals in line ranging from eighty to one hundred thousand. Elaborate preparation had been made for the event.

At an early hour the police took possession of the entire line of march, and vehicular traffic of all descriptions was absolutely prohibited in the district through which the procession was to pass after 8 o'clock. Even before that hour the various societies assigned to places in the parade had commenced to arrive at the appointed rendezvous on the streets running west from the lake front, while sightseers began to seize upon points of vantage along the route to be traversed.

It was very soon evident that General Miles, who has autocratically controlled the greater part of the arrangements for the events of both to-day and to-morrow, had added one more to his many blunders in the selection of the line of march. This was less than a mile and a half in length, comprised entirely within the business districts between Wabash avenue and the river, and affording comparatively minor opportunities for the parade being witnessed by any great number of people. Two weeks ago experienced civil engineers gave it out that sidewalks, windows and roofs combined along the line would not afford facilities for more than a quarter of a million spectators, and the correctness of this estimate was demenstrated to-day.

The sidewalks filled up like magic, and those who came down town at what they had considered a favorable hour found themselves unable to get within many yards of the streets over which the parade was to pass. It was a congestion, a jam, and the push and crush and miniature panics that prevailed here, there and everywhere, but which fortunately did not develop into anything serious or tragic, bore testimony to the blundering or malicious intent that was responsible for the crowding of pretty well the entire population of the city and of scores of thousands of visitors into a quarter not large enough to comfortably accommodate one-tenth of the number.

It was shortly after eleven o'clock when the firing of three guns from Battery D on the lake front gave the signal for the head of the procession to move from that point. A detachment of mounted police led the way, followed by a company of police on foot. Sousa's new Marine Band preceded Gen. Nelson A. Miles, who had appointed himself Marshall of the Day, and who was supported on the right by Gen. Stockton as Chief of Staff, and on the left by the Assistant Marshal. The Chicago Hussars were next in line, as an escort to Mayor Washburne, the city officials and the Board of Aldermen. In their handsome uniforms, sitting bolt upright on their coal-black prancing steeds, the Hussars presented an inspiring appearance, and were greeted at intervals with hearty cheers. Following the representatives of the city was an entire division composed of the governors of the various states and territories accompanied by their staffs and escorts.

The governors came in rotation according to the dates of the admission of their states into the Union, the line being led by Gov. Reynolds of Delaware, and the rear being brought up by Gov. Shoup of Idaho. The commonwealths represented included Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Georgia, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maryland, South Carolina, New Hampshire, Virgihia, New York, North Caroiina, Rhode Island, Kentucky, Vermont, Tennessee, Louisiana, Ohio, Indiana, Mississippi, Illinois, Alabama, Maine, Missouri, Arkansas, Michigan, Florida, Iowa, Texas, Wisconsin, California, Minnesota, Oregon, Kansas, West Virginia, Nevada, Nebraska, Colorado, Montana, Washington, North Dakota and South Dakota.

The gubernatorial division created considerable enthusiasm, and as the people from one state and another singled out their respective governors they cheered to the echo. Hardly less warm was the greeting accorded to the pupils from the Indian school at Carlisle, Pa., three hundred well drilled, upright, substantial-looking lads, attired in neat gray uniforms and marching like regulars.

The Orangemen turned out in goodly numbers, and so did the military order of St. George, the Scottish societies, the Royal Scots, and the uniformed order Sir Knights of St. George. Next in order was a division typical of patriotism and including the Patriotic Sons of America, the Select Knights of the United States, the order of United American Mechanics, and the boys of the High School. The Turners turned out in four divisions, three thousand strong, and with plenty of music. Then came the members of the Royal Arcanum and the National Union, ex-Confederates, Woodmen of America, and the Foresters. The Knights Templar, with their plumes waving proudly, led the Masonic contingent, 10,000 strong, and 3000 colored Masons brought up the rear of the division, but the crowning triumph remained for the last division and the Catholic fraternities. There were nearly 50,000 of them. Every man carried an American flag and there were numerous floats emblematic of the history of the United States and representative of Columbus discovering America. The division moved in the following order: German Catholics, 16,000; Italian Catholics, 8000; French Catholics, 5000; Polish Catholics, 5000; Bohemians, 3000; Catholic Order of Foresters, 10,000; Ancient Order of Hibernians, 2500; Young Men's Catholic Union, 5000; Catholic Knights of America, 2000; minor temperance societies, 5050; Knights of St. John, 10,000; Catholic Benevolent Legion, 880; Fraternity of the Sacred Heart, 1000. No less than 15 bands furnished music for this division alone. Its success was largely due to the Italian Catholics, who were animated by a double feeling of patriotism, both for their foster country and the country which gave birth to Columbus and themselves. American flags were lavishly displayed throughout the procession, while each member of the Catholic Order of Oddfellows wore in his button hole a small United States flag.

The line of march was north on Michigan avenue to Van Buren street, west to Wabash avenue, north to Lake street, west to State street, south to Adams street, west to Franklin street, south to Jackson street, and east to State, where the procession will disband. At the postoffice a large reviewing stand has been erected on the Adams street side, and from here the procession was reviewed by Vice-President Morton, the members of the Cabinet, the judges of the Supreme Court, the members of the diplomatic corps and other distinguished guests.

On the right and left of the grand stand were forty-four tiers of seats occupied by school children between the ages of twelve and fifteen to a total of nearly three hundred. They were dressed in red, white and blue, and so arranged in line as to perfectly represent the national colors, even to the stars. These "human flags," as somebody called them, attracted considerable attention and received hearty cheering.

Another feature of the procession was a bagpipe band of twenty-four members, the first band of the kind in the country, and its first appearance. It led the Royal Scots, who turned out 150 strong and all dressed in the Highland uniform. Altogether the parade was a great and signal success.

The banquet of the Fellowship Club to-night at Kinsley's will be one of the biggest things in the way of dinners, not only in the west, but in the entire history of the country.

Nearly one hundred and fifty of the most distinguished men will, at a signal from President James W. Scott, rise to their feet and drink to the health of President Harrison. Among them will be Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ireland, the governors of all the States, Vice-President Morton, the ministers of all the prominent nations to the United States, including those from Great Britain, Russia, Germany, France, Spain, Italy, and last, but not least, the Celestial ministers from China and Japan. Minister Lincoln, Chauncey M. Depew, Gen. Horace Porter, George W. Childs, A. J. Drexel, ex-President Hayes.

Mr. H. M. Kingsley has been given carte blanche to make this banquet the "swellest" affair he has ever known, and it has demanded his attention for several weeks. The speeches, although of an informal nature, are likely, or some of them at least, to be of national importance.

One of the finest pieces de resistance ever seen at a banquet has been supplied for the occasion. The table will be set in a hollow square. In the centre will be a miniature model, complete in every detail, of the lofty administration building. The structure will be eight feet high, and surrounded by the walls, lagoon, etc., just as the original will appear at the Fair during the opening. Myriads of incandescent lamps furnish the light. The miniature lampposts, etc., will give the piece a decidedly natural appearance.

Besides the running fountains, the lagoon will contain several small electric launches, which will make several trips across the water. A patented electric apparatus will keep the water churned into small waves and give a life-like appearance to the journeys of the boats. The other tables will be elaborately decorated, and a costly and unique souvenir will be presented to each of the guests.

Grand Trunk Changes.

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—General Manager Seargeant has sent a circular letter to the heads of the various departments of the Grand Trunk Railway, officially notifying them of the following changes in the staff, all of which will take effect on November 1st: Chas. Stiff having retired from the position of superintendent of the Southern division, James Stephenson will assume the duties of superintendent of the system east of Detroit and St. Clair rivers, with headquarters at Montreal. W. R. Tidin will be assistant superintendent of the Western district at London; D. Morice, assistant superintendent of the Central district at Toronto; and J. B. Webster, assistant superintendent of the Northern district, at Orillia. J. M. Riddell will be assistant superintendent of the Eastern district, with headquarters at Montreal. Wm. Wainwright, assistant general manager, who is absent on a pleasure trip to the Pacific coast, intends to resign to take a more lucrative position in the United States.

The Fire at Beeton.

BARRIE, Oct. 19.—A bad fire occurred at Beeton, Ontario, to-day. The following are the places destroyed as far as can be learned: Hopwell's store, dwelling and buildings, Charles Baxter's hotel and stables, Young's tailor shop, W. H. Mitchell's two buildings and furniture store, Barton's store and dwelling, W. G. Stephen's store and dwelling, M. Shelton's dwelling and contents, building intended for town hall, Buchanan's bakery, Hayes' shop and dwelling, J. Coulter's hotel and stable, S. Harkin's house, stable and sheds, empty store of E. Reemer, Toronto, and W. Ashton's drug store and dwelling house. The contents of the stores and dwellings in many cases are a total loss. The loss will be between $55,000 and $60,000. The insurance is small, in some cases none whatever.

English Opinions.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Mr. Daly's accession to office is viewed in England as likely to lead to a more active immigration policy. The Chronicle suggests that Canada will probably adopt the system of prepaid passages, which worked so well in the United States and was so long advocated here for Canada. Apart from this, however, English experts agree that Canada must guard against a fitful policy. A large outlay followed by rigid parsimony means simply throwing money away. The expenditure must be persistent to be beneficial.

Collision in the North Sea.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The tug Columbia to-day towed into Plymouth the lightships Bathia Blanca and San Borsona, both destined for use on the Brazilian coast. On October 3rd the captain of the tug reported that the San Borsona had struck in the North Sea the schooner Pernambuco. Both vessels were damaged and the Pernambuco was not seen afterwards. It is supposed that she went down with her crew of nine men.

LE CARON THE SPY.

Publication of the Memoirs of the Notorious Fenian.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The reminiscences of Dr. Le Caron or Thomas Phil Beech, the Fenian spy, who gained such notoriety in 1889 by his disclosures before the Parnell commission, have been made public. Le Caron recounts his early life, and describes how a Tennessee girl, who afterwards married him, rescued him from Confederate marauders during the civil war in the United States. He calls himself a fatalist, and says:—"I never sought Fenianism. Fenianism rather came to me." He declared that when he and Gen. O'Neill were received at the White House by President Johnson, the President told Gen. O'Neill that he sympathized with the Fenians, and was willing to do all in his power to assist the movement. "You must remember," said President Johnson, "I gave you full five days before issuing the proclamation stopping you. In God's name what more did you want? If you could not get there in five days, by God, you could never get there. And then, as President, I was compelled to enforce the neutrality laws or be denounced on every side." Le Caron describes to the utmost detail the whole Fenian movement against Canada, showing how he became acquainted with every man of any importance connected with the movement. The Irish part of his memoirs are of less interest from the fact that all of it was revealed before the Parnell commission. Le Caron says the Clan-Na-Gael plans included a treaty with Russia, the manufacture of a submarine torpedo boat to inflict terrible damage on the British navy, plots to assassinate the Queen, kidnap the Prince of Wales and rescue Michael Davitt from prison. Le Caron gives the text of a peculiar circular prepared for a dynamite campaign in the event of Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule scheme being inadequate. In regard to the modern Irish-American agitator Le Caron says: Gold is his god, his breviary and his beads. He attains his ends on jobbery, trickery and delusion of the meanest and most despicable type. He bravely and blusteringly advocates despicable enterprises from the safe distance of 3000 miles." Le Caron says that Dr. Gallagher, who controlled the dynamite campaign, was often in parliament, and that he had been introduced to Mr. Gladstone. One plan devised was to blow up parliament by throwing bombs on the table in front of the speaker. Another project was to steal the stone of Scone, which serves as the seat of the coronation chair in Westminster Abbey, in which kings are believed to have been crowned for centuries in the sacred hall of Tara. The book contains numerous interesting portraits. The literary style is rather diffusive.

Weekly Budget FROM 42 BROAD STREET

READ! 'TWILL INTEREST YOU.

To sell two Suits of Clothing for every one I've sold before is a task I've set myself to perform this season. It looked almost hopeless, but I rolled up my sleeves and went at it. I'm glad to say that so far I've not only GOT THERE, but am past the mark and almost up to THREE TO ONE. Of course in doing this: FIRST—I had to chop the head off exorbitant prices and at the same time give the very best in the market for the least money. Industry, economy and strict attention to "Biz" were also great factors; but the chief one was the CHOICE SELECTION OF MATERIALS shown, combined with CLOSE PRICES. Such as:

English Serge and Tweed Suitings, $32, $35, $37.
Scotch Cheviots and Bannockburns, $25, $28, $30, $32, $35.
Irish Tweeds and Serges, $28, $30, $33, $36, $39.
Trouserings from $5 up.

I can easily make a reduction of from $1 to $4.50 on above suit quotations were I to use inferior trimmings or poor workmanship. This I've determined not to do. No, No! None of that on my plate, as I've had a hard pull to get my reputation where it stands to-day for HIGH CLASS and CLEAN, HONEST WORK. My order book is beginning to get belly-fat, and as I will not turn out, under any circumstances, slovenly, ill-made or bad-fitting garments, it is necessary for those gentlemen who require a Winter Suit to place their orders now, as I always go for my work in rotation as it comes in.

How to Prepare Your Own Mucilage.

Get a little pot such as beef extract comes in, and any little brush the size of those that come with a mucilage bottle. Put a little gum arabic into the pot, add water, and in a few minutes it dissolves into a substance that makes the best kind of mucilage. If not used constantly it gets dry, but the addition of a few drops of water softens it at once, and the gum does not lose its virtue at all thereby.

How to Keep Rhubarb Fresh All Winter.

How to Take Care of Patent Leather Boots.

Milk is commonly supposed to preserve the polish and prevent cracking, but it does not do it. Brush a little blacking into the cracks; then apply French polish or common furniture polish or a mixture of sweet oil and turpentine with the finger. Rub dry with a soft rag. This method will preserve patent leather polish until the boots are wornout.

A BY-LAW

TO ENABLE the Corporation of the City of Victoria to borrow the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars for the purposes therein set forth.

Whereas it is necessary that the streets and sidewalks should be maintained and bridges improved and constructed, and whereas an insufficient sum of the present year's unexpended revenue is at this time available for such work, it is therefore deemed expedient to raise a sum of money for the above purposes.

And whereas for the purposes aforesaid it is intended to raise by way of loan upon the credit of the city the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars.

And whereas it will require the sum of $1,289.06 to be raised annually by special rate for the payment of the debt and interest as hereinafter mentioned.

And whereas the amount of the whole ratable property of the said Corporation of the City of Victoria according to the revised assessment roll, for the year 1891, was $17,563,148.

And whereas it will require an annual special rate of 3-40th of a mill in the dollar for the payment of the interest and the creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the principal of the said interest debt, according to the Municipal Act, 1892.

And whereas it is intended to reduce the general rate so that the said Special rate shall not increase the total rate of taxation.

Be it therefore enacted by the Corporation of the City of Victoria as follows:

SECTION 1.—It shall be lawful for the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Victoria to borrow upon the credit of the said Corporation, by way of the debentures hereinafter mentioned, from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate who may be willing to advance the same as a loan, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of $25,000.00 currency, or sterling money at the rate of $4.86 2-3rds dollars to the one pound sterling, and to cause all such sums so raised or received to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said Corporation for the purpose and with the object hereinbefore recited.

SECTION 2.—It shall be lawful for the said Mayor to cause any number of debentures to be made for such sums as may be required, not exceeding, however, the sum of $25,000.00 either in currency or sterling money (at the rate of $4.86 2-3 dollars to the one pound sterling) as may be required, each of the said debentures being of the amount of $1,000 or its sterling equivalent at the rate aforesaid, and all such debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Corporation and signed by the Mayor thereof.

SEC. (3).—The said debentures shall be made payable in fifty years from the date hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Corporation in the City Hall, Victoria, and shall have attached to them coupons for the payment of interest, and the signature of the Mayor or of the Clerk of the Corporation respectively to the coupons may be affixed by printed, stamped or lithographed fac simile.

SECTION 4.—The said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half-yearly at the office of the said Treasurer.

Sec. (5). For the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said debentures and the interest to become due thereon, an equal special rate of 3-40ths of a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be levied and collected in each year upon all rateable property within the City of Victoria during the continuance of the said debentures or any of them.

SECTION 6.—This By-law shall before the final passage thereof receive the assent of the electors of the said Corporation in the manner provided for by the Municipal Act, 1892, and shall take effect on the 14th day of October, 1892.

SECTION 7.—This By-law may be cited as the "Street Loan By-Law, 1892."

Passed the Municipal Council this 28th day of September, 1892.

Received the assent of and confirmed by the Municipal Electors on the 11th day of October, 1892.

Reconsidered, adopted and finally passed the Municipal Council on the 12th day of October, A.D. 1892.

No person shall convey or cause to be conveyed through any street, road, or highway, any night-soil, swill, or other filth or offensive matter dangerous to health, between the hours of six in the morning and twelve in the evening, or at any time except in a proper covered cart or vehicle, so as to prevent slopping or spilling.

Every tenant or occupier of a building shall dispose of all animal and vegetable refuse from such building or on the premises occupied therewith, either by burning the same or by placing it in a proper covered receptacle, the contents of which he shall cause to be removed at least once every week.

The owner, lessee, agent, or person having the care of any ground, yard, vacant lot, or other property where stagnant water or other nuisance exists, abutting on any street through which a common sewer shall have been constructed shall cause the same to be effectually drained into such common sewer.

The owner, lessee, agent, or occupier of any building or premises used as a dwelling house, hotel, restaurant, saloon, shop, store, office, factory, wash-house, or otherwise, shall furnish the same with a sufficient drain under ground to carry off all waste or foul water or liquid filth; and no such drain shall empty or discharge into or upon any street, road, or highway, or any open drain thereon, unless in the opinion of the Mayor and Council the same shall not be detrimental to the public health.

All vaults and privies shall be made tight, so that the contents thereof cannot escape therefrom, and as remote from any dwelling, well, or water tank as practicable.

OVERCROWDING.

No person shall let or occupy, or suffer to be occupied, as a dwelling or lodging, any room which—

(b.) Has not a window made to open in a manner approved by the Medical Health Officer or the Sanitary Inspector; or

(c.) Has not appurtenant to it the use of a water-closet, earth closet or privy, constructed in accordance with the by-laws and regulations of the City.

And every room in which a person passes the night, or is found between midnight and five o'clock in the forenoon, shall be deemed to be occupied as a dwelling or lodging within the meaning of this section.

Every medical practitioner attending or visiting any person who is suffering from smallpox, cholera, or any other disease of a malignant character dangerous to the public health, shall immediately give notice thereof to the Medical Health Officer or the Sanitary Inspector, who shall thereupon take such steps as may be deemed necessary to prevent the spread of such disease.

Any officer of the Corporation may seize, and under the direction of the Medical Health Officer, the Mayor or the Sanitary Inspector, destroy any tainted or unwholesome meat, poultry, fish, or other article of food exposed or offered for sale.

PENALTY.

Every person guilty of an infraction of any of the provisions of this by-law shall, upon conviction thereof, in a summary manner, before the Police Magistrate or any two Justices of the Peace having jurisdiction in the City, forfeit and pay a penalty not exceeding fifty dollars, and costs if ordered; and if such penalty, and costs if ordered, be not paid immediately or within such period as such Police Magistrate or Justices may appoint, the same may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, or such offender may be imprisoned, with or without hard labor, for any term not exceeding three calendar months, unless such penalty, and costs if ordered, be sooner paid.

THE MERCIER AFFAIR.

The Colonist seems to think that neither Mr. Gladstone, nor Mr. Blake, nor Sir Oliver Mowat would have seated himself beside Mr. Mercier in the Quebec court room, as Mr. Laurier did. The Colonist is quite mistaken. As these three gentlemen are not Pecksniffs, neither one of them would hesitate for an instant to sit beside Mr. Mercier in any public place, or to show by his actions that he felt for him in the hour of his disgrace, even though the disgrace was brought on by Mercier's own transgressions. They would have faith in their own purity, and would not be afraid of getting besmirched from contact with Mr. Mercier. Furthermore, they would not be in the least afraid that any reasonable man would misinterpret their action as an approval of the ex-Premier's conduct. There are some Pecksniffs in Canada, but the number is not large. Let us commend to the Colonist the following utterance of the Montreal Star, an independent journal which condemned Mercier as strongly as ever the Empire or the Colonist did, and which has no special friendliness for Mr. Laurier:—

The Empire can hardly be congratulated upon either the sense or taste shown in devoting its leading editorial the other day to the fact that when the assize court opened at Quebec, Hon. Mr. Laurier was present and shook hands with Mr. Mercier. It is not surprising that Mr. Laurier, a leading Quebec lawyer, should be present at the opening of a court in which he has business; nor that, being there, he should greet with polite kindliness a fallen friend. He would have been open to the charge of callousness and selfish Phariseeism had he done otherwise. When Parliament opened last spring, the old friends of Sir Hector Langevin crossed the House to where he sat far from his old exalted position and shook the disgraced man warmly by the hand. Sir John Thompson led in this show of common courtesy and the Empire did not write a shocked leader about it headed "The Conservative Leaders' Ally," remarking that Sir John Thompson's "appearance in the company of Langevin yesterday will be noted with considerable surprise and regret, and will excite a great deal of hostile criticism throughout the country. It was the worst possible taste to afford Langevin countenance in this way; the inference is plain that Sir John is either disposed to snap his fingers at public opinion, or that he is not a free agent, and cannot throw his old associate overboard." Yet, if the name of Mercier be substituted for that of Langevin, and Laurier for that of Sir John Thompson, the foregoing will be a part of what the Empire did say of Mr. Laurier's hand-shake with Mercier. "In the name of the prophet, figs!"

If our neighbor reads the above excerpt carefully it may come to an appreciation of the contrast between the Star's reasonableness and its own Pecksniffism. We have not referred to this matter for the purpose of defending Mr. Laurier, because he needs no defence, but to illustrate the peculiarities of the Tory respect for virtue. The Colonist talks about moral obtundity, therefore we may be excused if we present it with a problem in what might be called the moral rule-of-three. If it was wicked and foolish of Mr. Laurier to show kindness to Mercier, what is to be said of Sir Adolphe Caron, who was guilty of practically the same offence as Mercier's? If it is wrong to be seen shaking hands with and sitting beside a corrupt politician in a court room, is it right to retain another corrupt politician in the Dominion Government? If the Colonist is really concerned for the maintenance of virtue in high places perhaps it will give what it regards as the correct answers to these questions.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In the County Court at Toronto the other day a rather important judgment was given. The plaintiff was Davies, a Toronto brewer, and the defendant one Gamble, a hotelkeeper of Gananoque. An agent of the plaintiff took an order for ale from the defendant, the order was duly filled by the brewer, and the ale was retailed by the hotelkeeper. All this was done while the Scott Act was in force in Gananoque, and the defendant's plea was that the whole transaction was therefore illegal. Judge Morgan held the plea good and gave judgment for the defendant. Brewers will henceforth be chary about selling ale to hotelkeepers in places where any prohibitive act is in force.

Says the Canada Presbyterian:—"Newspaper abuse of Professor Goldwin Smith hurts nobody and nothing but the journals that indulge in it. Socially the professor stands on the highest rung; as a writer he ranks among the first twenty in the world. If his deliverances in favor of what he calls continental union are answered at all, they should be met by men who can do something better than call bad names. Shafts of that kind never reach Goldwin Smith."

A proposition has been made at the City Council board to expend in the construction of surface drains a portion of the $25,000 voted for the improvement of streets. While the drain work is no doubt very much needed, the stand taken by the Mayor, to the effect that it would be a misappropriation of funds to construct drains with moneys voted for sidewalks, bridges, etc., is no doubt perfectly correct. As a matter of fact the ratepayers voted down the drainage proposition when the streets by-law was passed.

It is very comforting to know that some people from parts of the States are taking up homes in the Canadian Northwest, and that others are buying land there. It is to be feared, however, that the exodus balance is yet very heavily against us; as about 20 people go outward for one coming to us. It is also a fact to be lamented that a very small percentage of those who are shifting their ground find their way to British Columbia, which offers more inducements than any other part of the country. Finally, it may be remarked that the whole population of Manitoba, the Northwest and British Columbia is not a tithe of the number which Sir John Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper predicted would be found in the prairie country alone in ten years from the date of the Canadian Pacific Railway contract.

TRACING THE SMALLPOX.

antine regulations are not up to the present date. There is room for great improvement in the administration of the laws. The bodies of infectious disease patients who die should not be buried in the ordinary cemetery. Cremation would be the most effective way of disposing of the bodies. The process of decay is much the same as cremation. When the outbreak occurred he was one of the first to endorse the provincial health board, but he did not think the board should interfere with the municipal authorities. The medical council of British Columbia consists of seven members and he thought the council should act as a provincial board of health. The election for the medical board takes place in the spring and no law need be enforced until then. If this suggestion was carried out there would be no political feeling in regard to it. The council has representatives from all parts of the province. Of course the scheme might be modified.

The commission adjourned at 4 o'clock until Tuesday at 1 o'clock.

THE TODHUNTER MURDER.

Sketch of the Two Prisoners Now Under Arrest for the Crime.

Frank Beegan and wife, under arrest at New Westminster suspected of the murder of May Todhunter, the keeper of a house of ill-repute in that city on Feb. 26th last, are well known in Victoria. They formerly lived here and both have relatives in this city. Frank Beegan was employed by J. P. Matthews & Co., grocers, and his wife, known then as May Falconer, or Faulkner, lived with a well-known saloon keeper. She left the latter and went off with Beegan. They went first to Tacoma and later returned here to Victoria going from here after a short stay, to the Mainland. Their movements since then were fully outlined in the TIMES yesterday evening. Beegan has three sisters married, here in Victoria, and his wife has one. All the ladies mentioned are highly respected and very well connected. The announcement of the arrest of the two, while they were both low characters, created both surprise and amusement among those who remember them here, as they are not regarded as capable of the crime.

That feeling seems to be general among those who know them. However, the police appear to have a sufficient case against them to press it. The case is being worked with all possible vigor by the officers. It will be remembered that at the time of the murder the police were completely baffled in their efforts to locate the murderers. All sorts of clues were followed up and all sorts of people fell under suspicion. Even the coachman of a California congressman, who never saw May Todhunter in his life, was arrested at San Francisco. He was in New Westminster the night of the murder and came suddenly to Victoria where he excited suspicion and was traced to San Francisco. Shortly after his arrest his complete innocence was established.

Mrs. Beegan, or May Falconer, is a California girl and comes from Excelsior, in Eldorado county, that state. She is a fine looking woman and not very far advanced in life. Beegan was borne in Victoria and is about 25 years of age.

Knights of the Key on Strike.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—Twenty-two telegraphers arrived here last night from Chicago en route to Kansas City, in response to advertisements printed in the papers of that city, offering railroad operators permanent employment. The Chicago operators were joined at the depot here by 23 St. Louis telegraphers and the entire party left for Kansas City this forenoon. The agency that had the advertisement inserted is endeavoring to supply the vacancies caused by the strike on the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe branches, and over 75 "scabs" are said to have gone south during the past two days. It is thought that by to-morrow every vacancy occasioned by the strike will be filled. It is apprehended in this city that this action means a suspension of negotiations between the railroad and the strikers. If this proves true it is predicted that Grand Chief Ramsay, of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, will call out the whole Santa Fe system, rather than let those of the branch road lose their fight.

COQUITLAM COMMISSION.

More Witnesses Examined Respecting the Transfer of Skins of Tonki Bay.

Captain McClellan Maintains that it was Done Outside the Three-Mile Limit.

Capt. McClellan, of the Coquitlam, related his story yesterday afternoon. The trip from Tonki Bay and return took over two hours. It took two and a half hours to make Tonki Bay after the transfer of skins. The Coquitlam made eight knots an hour and the distance travelled was 20 miles. Witness had not taken bearings, but was positive from the course the Coquitlam was making that when the Oscar and Hattie skins were taken the Coquitlam was 20 miles from land. Forty miles from Middleton Island, on June 21st, the Coquitlam relieved the Viva and Fawn of their skins. When the Coquitlam was off Port Etches, witness sent the mate ashore with a note to any man-of-war that might be in the harbor. The note stated that the Coquitlam was short of water and asked leave to enter. The Coquitlam went back to sea. The next morning the Coquitlam again approached land and picked up the mate's boat. He reported no warships inside the harbor. The Coquitlam went into the inner harbor and sent men for water. The Corwin entered later. An officer came aboard the Coquitlam and declared her seized. The Coquitlam was ordered to Sitka. Took a prize crew of two officers and four men. The Coquitlam only received water in Port Etches. There was no transfer of supplies. The court adjourned till Thursday morning.

The examination was not continued this morning owing to the illness of Lawyer Hughes, of Seattle, engaged by the owners of the seized vessels. This afternoon Captain McClellan, master of the Coquitlam, continued his evidence. Judge Dewes cross-examined.

The Coquitlam received cargoes of coal consigned to different schooners, but gave out supplies to no schooner. The Coquitlam wrs not built for ocean travel, but could make eight knots an hour, and under pressure nine.

Judge Dewes asked, "Did not Capt. McClellan put into Tonki Bay expecting to meet sealers?"

Witness said that he met sealers there. He put into Tonki Bay under stress of weather, but again cross-questioned, admitted that he would have entered Tonki Bay independently of the weather. Witness was asked did not his log book refer to a rendezvous for schooners and was not Tonki Bay that rendezvous? Witness denied that Tonki Bay was a rendezvous. Witness recollected the Maud S, Walter Earle, Sea Lion, Umbrina, Brenda and Winnifred as being in Tonki Bay. He denied any transference, excepting mail, in Tonki Bay. The purpose of towing the schooners out of Tonki Bay was to get outside the three mile limit. He thought that he was within the law outside the three mile limit. He took aboard skins after passing the three mile limit. Admitted preparing to receive the skins directly after leaving Cape Tonki. The Coquitlam stood off in a northerly direction when outside the three mile limit. The sea was an uninterrupted one. He did not know how far from Cape Tonki the influence of the cape would be felt. Transferring was finished at 9 o'clock in the evening. Witness would not swear that he was 12 miles from land at any time during the transfer of skins. Witness could not remember his conversation with the captain or the lieutenant of the Corwin. He was too much flurried at the time of the seizure to remember anything only to look upon the capture as a terrible injustice. The case is still in progress.

FAMOUS OCEAN GREYHOUNDS.

Two Formidable Rivals of the Empresses Coming Here.

Mr. H. E. Connan, agent of the Northern Pacific Steamship Company, spoke to a TIMES reporter to-day in reply to questions of the proposed transfer of the steamers Alaska and Arizona to the Pacific route:

"I have not yet received definite information as to when the Alaska and Arizona will be brought round to the Pacific coast. Yes, it is well-known that they have made first-class time on the Atlantic. The Alaska has a registered gross tonnage of 7000; she is 500 feet long, 58 feet beam, thirty-eight feet draught. The Arizona has a gross tonnage of 5000. She is 416 feet beam, and 36 feet draught. Both vessels were built in Glasgow. They are making 17 knots an hour and have a developed speed of 18 knots. They will undoubtedly lower the records on the Pacific route. Both vessels are to be thoroughly overhauled and to be fitted out with new tripie expansion engines and other improvements. The route will be from Tacoma, the terminal point of the Northern Pacific Ry., to Yokohama, Shanghai and Hong Kong, calling at Victoria en route. The steamers will be ready by the opening of next season."

THE DRILL HALL.

The Government Out of Cash---All Work Stopped To-Day.

Mr. Humber, contractor for the drill hall, has been notified by the Department of Public Works, Ottawa, that the money voted by parliament had been expended, and in consequence of this notification, the contractor to-day suspended work. The contract was for $34,000, and the building was to be completed early in the spring of 1893. About one-half of the contract sum has been expended. The brick and stone work is nearly finished, and the roof would have been on in three or four weeks more. If no arrangement is made to continue the work, the building will remain exposed to the winter rains, or until another sum is voted by parliament. The contractor is awaiting instructions from Ottawa.

Interred at Ross Bay.

The remains of Mrs. Alice Tifton were buried from the residence of her father, C. H. Sharp, Hill street, yesterday afternoon. Rev. Coverdale Watson conducted the funeral service. The remains were deposited in the family vault, Ross Bay cemetery.

The Location Made.

Mr. Blackman of the Canada Western is credited with the following statement in regard to the movement at Duluth, on Duncan's Bay: "This much is true, that the Canada Western proposes to build divisional shops at the proper time at Duluth, and has determined to use Duncan's Bay as a harbor and to establish a ferry from Duncan's Bay to the Mainland at the earliest possible day."

Who Owns the Boat?

Two days ago a large boat, carvel built, and having a complete outfit of oars, sails, rowlocks, rudder, etc., and half filled with water, drifted upon the shore of Mr. E. Fawcett's premises, Victoria Arm, near the Gorge. The boat is 20 feet long, strongly built and painted white. She is not a sealing boat. Anyone who can prove that the craft belongs to him should call upon Mr. Fawcett.

The Theosophical Society.

The Theosophical Society held an interesting and enthusiastic meeting on Wednesday evening at 149 Chatham street. The assemblage was thoroughly cosmopolitan, representatives of the following nationalities being present: Hindoo, Swede, German, Irish, French, Scotch and English, showing the catholicity of the theosophic spirit. A highly instructive paper was read by a lady member, and a spirited discussion followed. A new member was enrolled who had formerly been connected with the London Lodge, England, and had the privilege of being acquainted with both Madame Blavatski and Colonel Olcott, the founders of the society.

The Imprisoned Seamen.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Helmcken, who appears for Capt. Davis of the ship Bankburn, was engaged all day on important cases in the Supreme Court, the hearing of the argument on the rule nisi in the case of the imprisoned seamen was postponed until 11 o'clock tomorrow. It was rumored a few days ago that the captain, after loading at Port Blakely, would return to Victoria and take the seamen on board before the expiration of their term of imprisonment, but a letter received by Collector Milne from the captain states that he will not call here, so that the men who have been left behind will in all likelihood be thrown resourceless on the city.

Mirth and Jollity Reigned.

Baskets brought good prices last night. The sale was at the basket social of the Young Ladies' Institute in Philharmonic Hall. The baskets were made by the young ladies, filled with fruits and sweetmeats and here and there a cigar. The purchasers had the pleasure of eating with the ladies whose baskets they bought. Mrs. J. Leonard was awarded first prize; Miss E. Wilson second prize; Miss Ollie Deasy third prize for the prettiest baskets. Miss G. Goddyn sang a sweet French air. Miss Kate Dolan executed a good instrumental selection. The instrumental duet of Misses Dougherty and Martin was well received. Miss Beatrice Martin was deservedly encored. Miss Martin promises well as a reciter. Dancing was indulged in till an early hour.

Captain Healy's Adventure.

Capt. James Healy, the Alaska pilot, of Victoria, B.C., was knocked down and robbed of a gold watch and chain at 3 o'clock yesterday morning on Commercial street, between Washington and Jackson, in front of the Gottstein building, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer of yesterday. The thief, a man named Robert Miller, was arrested ten minutes later by Officer Powers while trying to sell the stolen property for $3 to a colored man named John Willey, who sells hot corn at the People's theatre, South Second and Washington streets. Miller was at once taken to the police headquarters and searched. The officers divested him of nearly all his clothing in the search, but apparently in vain. Finally it was noticed that he appeared to have a swelling in one of his cheeks and a little choking brought the stolen goods out in short order. Miller and an accomplice named Rufus Fish, who was arrested about an hour later, were arraigned before Justice Von Tobel yesterday afternoon, and the case was continued until 10 o'clock this morning, both prisoners and complaining witness being locked up meantime. Miller is known to the police as a daring criminal.

CITY POLICE COURT.

Four More Chinamen Arrested Charged With Gambling.

The Ah Hoo case took the entire time of the police court yesterday afternoon. Lawyer Mills contended that it had not been shown in evidence that there was anything to dispose of. To constitute a lottery it would have to be proved that there existed a fund. Judgment was reserved.

This morning the police had gathered in four more Celestials. They were also charged with selling lottery tickets. Their names were Tew Land, Tow Land, Chin Fook and Tom Gow. Lawyer Mills pointed out an error in the summonses. The blunder was rectified. Mr. Mills then remarked that the informations were not according to law, and he might have the pleasure of quashing them upon certiorari.

The face of Chief Sheppard looked glum.

Lawyer Mills said he was not going to offer objection now. He would reserve that pleasure. The court smiled and the case proceeded.

Policeman Palmer swore to purchasing a lottery ticket from Tew Land. The ticket was for the Tai Long Co. lottery. He marked it with ten spots and "went it" for twenty-five cents.

Policeman Mouat said he was with Palmer when Palmer marked the ticket.

Tom Choo, teacher in the Chinese mission, interpreted the alleged lottery tickets. The word lottery did not appear on the tickets.

Lawyer Mills alleged that it had not been proved that they were lotteries. The Chinaman was a servant not a principal. The police constables themselves were liable upon their own evidence to prosecution for purchasing the alleged lottery tickets. Judgment was reserved till Monday. The judgment will virtually decide the other cases.

Outside Property Active.

The local real estate market is very quiet, but outside lands, especially along the proposed line of the Canada Western are very active. This is especially the case at Duncan's Bay, where a town called Duluth has been started. Of course, as everybody knows, the line will be built. There is no question about it. Hence the interest of investors is well founded, for development will follow the construction of the line. The island division of the line, Mr. Bakeman has informed the public, will be built first. Although the exact line of the road has not been determined, the point on the east coast of the island where the ferry up Bute Inlet will start and the northern headquarters will be located, has been determined. It is at Duluth on Duncan's Bay and no better selection could be made. The place is a perfect site for a city. The land is level, opening off into the valleys which surround it, and the harbor is deep and well sheltered and offers perfect anchorage. The place is already the centre of the lumbering interests in the north, and the timber right on the bay is unsurpassed anywhere in the world. The finest farming country in the province backs it up and the country already explored for coal has fully demonstrated its worth in that line. It is here that the greatest opportunity in the province is offered to buyers.

A Response to the Challenge.

Mr. J. Gallagher, one of the crew of the sealing schooner E. B. Marvin, called at the TIMES office this morning regarding the challenge to the fleet issued by the gallant skipper of the Agnes Macdonald. Mr. Gallagher said he had been authorized by the sealing men to state that the men of the sealing fleet were willing to back the schooner E. B. Marvin against the schooner Agnes Macdonald in an ocean race from Race rocks, Straits of San Juan de Fuca, to the Sandwich Islands and back for $3000, providing the Marvin gets a proper outfit of sails, of which she now stands in need. Mr. Gallagher said the sealing men would like to make the stake $10,000, and a challenge cup worthy of such a contest. The sealing men are anxious that the owners of the Marvin take the challenge up, as they believe she can outstrip the beautiful Nova Scotian. The Marvin is a sailer of renown, and was a Gloucester fisherman before coming west. The feeling among the sealers is strongly in favor of the race being arranged.

Cleaned and Repaired.

The steamer Islander returned from the Sound last evening, making the run from Seattle in four hours and forty minutes. The Islander has been on the De Lyon dock at Tacoma, undergoing repairs. Two new plates were put in her bow and the blades of her propellers were repaired. Her hull was in a much better condition than her owners thought before she was docked, so only a few of the steel plates taken over were used. Mr. Thos. Shaw, of the Albion Iron Works of this city, superintended the work. He had a great deal of difficulty getting men who knew anything about the work. Chief Engineer Brownlee of the Islander says the De Lyon dock is a good one to work in, it being very dry. It, however was only good for small jobs, and he doubted if it would hold a heavier steamer than the Islander.

Quick Work.

The Sayward mill, under the management of Col. Northey and associates, will not let the reputation of the old firm for enterprise suffer in the least. Ald. Humber, the contractor for the drill hall, required a number of pieces of timber 78 feet long, and he wanted them in a hurry. There were none in the city of the proper length. The Sayward Mill Co. took the order and on Thursday last dispatched a steamer to the logging camp, 200 miles to the north, for a boom of logs, which was towed to the mill. Eleven sticks, 78 feet long, 9x16, were cut and delivered at the building, James Bay, on Wednesday night, seven days after the order was given.

Drink Victoria Lager.

Enterprising Seattle.

The merchants of Seattle have a scheme on foot to capture the trade of the Northern Pacific steamers. They sent Wa Chong, the wealthy Seattle Chinaman, over the line of the Northern Pacific, and men east as far as New York. He established two stores in Montana, where in the past the Chinese have always brought goods from San Francisco, and made arrangements for handling Chinese goods at points farther east. The supplies for these stores will all come through Seattle.

Lecture on Robert Burns.

Miss Jean Howieson, of Perth, Scotland, will give her famous lecture on the Life and Works of Robert Burns in the Philharmonic hall, Fort street, on Friday eve., the 28th inst. Of Miss Howieson's lecture the Toronto Globe says: "The lecture contained a graceful tribute to the genius and generous attributes of the poet, and the selections from his poems were made with good taste and judgment."

Business Good on the Sound.

Edward F. Sweeney, of the Claussen-Sweeney Brewery Co., Seattle, arrived in the city this morning on the City of Puebla. He is on his way to Vancouver and other Mainland points on business. Mr. Sweeney notes a material growth in Victoria since his last visit. He reports business on the Sound as being very good. He will go to Vancouver in the morning.

For San Francisco.

The steamer City of Puebla sailed from the outer wharf this morning for San Francisco with the following cabin passengers from Victoria:—Jos. Pritchard and wife, Ira E. Jonson, Robert Ritter, Miss S. Bryant, Mrs. H. F. Sieward, Mrs. Robert Ritter, Mrs. H. Edmonds and child, Mrs. C. W. Jenkinson and child and Mrs. E. Costello.

The Catholic Bazaar.

The ladies of the Roman Catholic Cathedral will not open their bazaar until November 2nd, a postponement from the original date having been rendered necessary. It will be opened 12 o'clock, noon, with a fine hot lunch. The ladies are working hard and sparing no pains to make the bazaar a success.

Prevented by Rough Weather.

The steamer Bailey Gatzert started from Seattle a month ago for Portland, but never got any further than Neah Bay. There the rough weather kept her from venturing out, and after waiting the time mentioned she steamed back to Seattle. It is the intention to take her around and put her on a Columbia river run.

THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The Councillors Last Night Travel Over Some Old Ground at Tremendous Length.

The Sewerage Question--Broken Pipes Re-Hashed — Sanitary Matters Revived.

Mayor Beaven and a couple of the Aldermen had to wait for a quarter of an hour last evening for a quorum. All the aldermen, however, arrived later on and the business was proceeded with in the usual order. The clerk read the minutes and then the following

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Dr. Watt, resigning his position as temporary health officer, on account of Dr. Milne.

No action was taken in this matter.

Ald. McKillican moved that the accounts passed by the sewerage committees for the pipes to replace those broken on Humboldt, street, be paid.

Ald. Baker objected to the payment of the accounts as he contended that the contract was not yet completed.

Ald. Bragg objected to the payment of the accounts as the only money on hand for the sewers is the ten per cent to be held back as a guarantee that the contractor will keep the sewers in order for six months.

Ald. Humber said the council were recovering the ground that they covered last week and very slow at that. The pipes have arrived to the order of the commissioners and they would have to be paid for. He did not suppose the pipes already were half of what would have to be obtained after the whole system had been examined.

The Mayor explained that he did not want to sign the check until the council had placed the money at the commissioners' disposal.

Ald. Styles thought the commissioners had committed a fault by letting the contractor draw his full 90 per cent of the contract price before the work was done. He thought the city would have to pay for the pipes.

Ald. McKillican said that the point to be settled was, "Whose fault was it that the pipes were destroyed?"

Ald. Baker said it was ridiculous to expect the city to pay for the pipes broken by blasting.

The council spent over two hours talking on this question, going over exactly the same ground that they did at the last meeting.

Ald. Munn called attention to the fact that people sometimes got a little weary of hearing men talk so long and so often about one thing.

Ald. Baker moved that the matter be referred to the city barristers.

Ald. Lovell said the barristers had already given an opinion.

Ald. Bragg seconded the amendment, which was lost and the original motion was carried, authorizing the payment of the accounts, Alds. Baker and Bragg voted "no" and the rest "yea."

The residents of San Juan avenue are petitioning for a sidewalk. Referred to the street committee.

E. A. Wilmot, stating that but $250 was left for the current expenses of the water works. Received and filed.

E. A. Wilmot reported that the water works buildings are very rotten and if there is a heavy fall of snow this year it will certainly collapse. He recommended that the buildings be removed and thereby prevent the inconvenience which would be caused by the collapse of the buildings. Referred to the water committee.

THE QUARANTINE STATION.

The residents of Victoria West protested against the action of the provincial health authorities having a quarantine station on the reserve; also against the action of the health officer in allowing a case to land from the Sound steamer, and the action of one of the attendants in going from the place where the sase was to differents parts of the city.

The Mayor said he had authorized the health inspector to quarantine Officer Lewis, the attendant complained of, if the report was true.

Dr. Watt sent the following report on the matter:

VICTORIA, B.C., 19th Oct., 1892.

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN.—In the petition of the residents of Victoria West there is scarcely a statement made which is altogether in accordance with the facts.

The Indian Reserve, although within the city limits, is unfortunately under the control of the Dominion, and residents on the Reserve when sick are attended by the medical officer of the Department. When the case of the Indian Howard was reported to me, I referred it to Dr. Haunington, medical officer for the Indian Department, who promptly removed Howard to the quarantine hospital, and quarantined on the Reserve, under guard, some twenty other natives. What he has since done in the matter he can best inform you, but of all I fully approve. I do not consider that there has been at any time since the quarantine was established on the Reserve any danger of any resident of Victoria West catching smallpox therefrom unless he were putting himself out of his way to hunt it up.

The City Health Officer has unfortunately no authority to examine boats coming from foreign ports. Hence it was not by any neglect that the Indian Howard was allowed to come into the city. The petitioners must direct their censure to another quarter.

For more particular information on other subjects mentioned in the petition, I must refer you to Dr. Haningten.

I am your obedient servant,
HUGH WATT, M.D.,
Acting Health Officer.

Ald. Hunter said Dr. Watt was to be given credit for his prompt action, but nevertheless he thought a great deal complained of was true. He knew that the station was a disgrace to those who had charge of it. He thought the Board of Health would be enlightened by an investigation.

The matter was referred to the Board of Health.

Wm. Jordan requesting a settlement of his account for damage done to his business on account of rumors of smallpox at his establishment. Referred to the Board of Health.

From Eberts & Taylor, stating that the council could not expropriate land for crematory purposes. Received and filed.

From Drake, Jackson & Helmcken, stating that the money for the purchase of the right of way through Henley Point for the sewers, remained unpaid and also enclosing an account of $12 a quarter for rent of the land since December, 1890. Referred to the sewerage committee.

From Jos. Clearihue and Geo. Phillips, requesting an audience with the street committee to consider street lines on Spring Ridge, The request was granted.

From A. DeCosmos stating that he objected to the extension of Broad street from Pandora street.

Other petitioners thought that all the citizens should pay for the extension of the street, as the extension would benefit the whole city, not only the property in the vicinity. The letter and the petition were referred to the assessor.

REPORTS.

The finance committee reported having paid accounts amounting to $196.36. The same committee recommended the payment of accounts amounting to $1129.84. Adopted.

The committee appointed to report on the best means of disposing of the garbage, reported that the trustees of the Douglas estate decided that they could not lease the Henley point property for a dumping ground. Received and filed.

The Old Folk's Home committee recommended that something be done for the old woman, who applied for admission to the home, and that $75 be paid to the Refuge Home for the keep of the woman. Adopted.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASE HOSPITAL.

The special committee appointed to wait on the directors of the Jubilee hospital in regard to a contagious disease hospital, reported as follows:

To his Worship the Mayor and Board of Aldermen, in Council Assembled.

GENTLEMEN:—Your committee appointed to confer with a like committee of the Jubilee Hospital directors for the purpose of discussing the establishment and maintenance of an Infectious Disease Hospital either in connection with or as part of the Royal Jubilee Hospital beg herewith to submit the answer of the directors to the questions sumbitted by your committee said answer being contained in resolutions passed by the Jubilee Hospital directors on the 14th inst.

Your committee would recommend that in case the reply of the directors is satisfactory to the council the committee be authorized to continue negotiations in respect to this matter. All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. J. MUNN
JOSEPH HUNTER } Committee.
W. D. MCKILLICAN

To the President and Directors of the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital.

GENTLEMEN,—Your special committee appointed to confer with a committee appointed by the mayor and aldermen of the city of Victoria, in reference to the establishment and maintenance of a permanent contagious diseases hospital, beg leave to report that after discussing this matter with the aldermen appointed as the committee for the city, we now desire before proceeding further to submit the following for your decision:

1st. Provided satisfactory financial arrangements are made with the directors to operate and maintain a permanent contagious hospital (to include smallpox, scarlet fever and cholera cases) on their present land.

2nd. Failing in this will the hospital authorities operate a similar institution on adjacent land, provided, of course, that satisfactory arrangements are made.

In the event of the Board assenting to either of these propositions, your committee desire some expression of opinion as to terms.

Respectfully submitted,
(Sd.) CHAS. HAYWARD,
" G. BYRNES,
" B. GORDON,
" ALEX WILSON, } Committee.

Victoria, B.C., 14th, 1892.

Moved by Mr. Baker, seconded by Mr. Yates. That the first proposition embodied in the report of a committee dated 14th October, 1892, regarding site for infectious diseases hospital, be not entertained by the directors of this hospital. Carried.

(Sd.) Joshua Davies, Chairman.
Dated 14th Oct., 1892.

Moved by Mr. J. Stuart Yates, seconded by Mr. W. M. Chudley, That this board is willing to operate an infectious hospital, to be built on land adjacent to, or other than the hospital grounds, provided that satisfactory and other arrangements can be made with the Corporation of the City of Victoria.

(Sd.) Joshua Davies, Chairman.
Dated Oct 14th; 1892.

The committee was given further time to continue the negotiations.

E. A. Wilmot reported on matters referred to him, stating cost of the work on drains that had been asked for by residents of James Bay. Received and filed.

The street committee recommended that the View street drain be constructed. Estimated cost $5000. The committee also recommended that work to cost $331 be done. The work consists of drains on Princess avenue and Oswego street and sidewalks on Douglas street and the Saanich road.

After a long discussion the report was adopted and the council adjourned at the usual hour—midnight.

A Philosophical Family.

Amelia has pimples and sores in the head,
From humors internal her nose has grown red;
She's a boil on her neck that is big as a bell,
But in other respects she is doing quite well.

And pa has dyspepsia, malaria and gout,
His hands with salt-rheum are all broken out;
He is prone to rheumatics that make his legs swell,
But in other respects he is doing quite well.

And ma has night-sweats and a troublesome cough,
That all our doctors can't seem to drive off;
She wakes every night and coughs quite a spell;
But in other respects she is doing quite well.

There is nothing like philosophy to help one bear the ills of life, but in the case of this family what is most needed is a good supply of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It would cleanse Amelia's bad blood, cure pa's ailments, and check ma's cough. "The Golden Medical Discovery" by its action on the liver, cleanses the system of impurities. It cures, humors, ulcers, boils, scrofula, salt-rheum, erysipelas and all kinds of sores and swellings. The only guaranteed blood-purifier.

TRIBUTE FROM JOHN BULL.

He Admits That We Surpass Him in Appliances for Fighting Fire.

There is much to be learned from America by all of us, and it is to be regretted that one of the crack brigades of the States could not have crossed the ocean to attend the firemen's congress. We may find one more opportunity for the lesson if the committee of the Chicago exhibition thinks fit to invite the firemen of Europe to the World's fair. The Americans like to think that they take the lead in this branch of public work, and by all accounts of them they would still be very hard to beat.

Most of our newer contrivances are probably of American origin. The steam fire engine; the horses standing ready harnessed day and night and trained to walk straight into the shafts as soon as they hear the alarm bell; the pole down which the men, also ready dressed, slide from their sleeping rooms to reach the basement to save the few seconds that might be lost by their coming down stairs—all these seem to have been matters of common experience in America when they were still talked of as novelties here. The same thing may be said of the alarm boxes.

The Americans train for speed, and some of their "records" are astonishing. At a fire which occurred in New York two years ago the first alarm was received at 6:07. In three minutes after that the first engine reached the burning building, which, it may be supposed, was not very far off. The whole second floor, which was 100 feet long, was a mass of fire, and the flames were spreading to the stories above. Other engines soon arrived, and by 6:35, or in less than half an hour, not a spark of fire was left in the building. The water towers, which are huge, perpendicular pipes carried on a movable derrick, pour the stream into the highest buildings at any elevation required. They are packed into a comparatively small space when not in use, but are instantly reared to their full height by the force of carbonic acid gas. The floating fire engines are largely used in New York, as the city is surrounded by water. The latest is built of steel, and it travels at a very great speed. Its four pipes are from three to four inches in diameter, but the power of all the pumps may be concentrated into one or two pipes, which yield a still larger volume of water. These 5-inch streams, in their tremendous force, act like battering rams and drive their way through ceilings and roofs, and even through brick walls, into the very heart of the fire.

In some instances the life lines are fired from a gun, on much the same principle as that in use for the rocket apparatus at sea. The gun carries a thin line to the firemen at the top of the burning building, and with this they draw up the stouter rope they require. The life nets, which are equally light and strong, into which persons jump with comparative impunity from the highest floors, save many lives. The best of these contrivances have been introduced in our own fire service, in great part owing to the enterprise and energy of Captain Shaw. He was able to boast in his farewell address that during the thirty years of his control of the metropolitan brigade the number of stations had been raised from thirteen to fifty-nine, and the number of firemen from not much more than 100 to a little over 700. In 1861 there were no telephones nor call points. They now extend over the whole of London.

To the last moment of his official career, however, Captain Shaw was still calling for more of everything. Yet it will be some time before the ratepayer will enable him to realize his ideal of thirty-two new stations at an average cost of a thousand a year each. A perfect water supply was then, and perhaps still is, our most pressing need. Only a small number of the pipes were constantly charged, and there were often more engines at a fire than there was water for their use.

Rather Too Much to Expect.

The cracksman had ripped the blinds off their hinges and was in the act of cutting through the window glass when a chorus of feminine shrieks was heard within the house. It sounded as if there were at least thirty-five women inside, but the burglar, basing his opinion upon his experience, conjectured that there were about three of them.

"Go right away from there," shouted a shrill voice.

"Murder!"

"Help!"

The clouds parted long enough to allow the moon to bathe the earth in silver glory and reveal a cynical smile on the lips of the outlaw.

"Ain't you going away?"

The shrill voice shook.

"Well, I guess not."

The burglar spoke with the courage of his convictions.

"And you're c-c-coming in h-h-here?"

"Cert."

For a moment the harsh, rasping noise of the file on the glass—the identical harsh, rasping noise that is usually heard in stories of adventure—was drowned in another chorus of shrieks.

"Girls, he's c-c-coming in."

"Wo-o-o-ow!"

There was a rushing hither and thither and the mingled commotion of sobs and groans. Presently there was a sudden silence.

"Mr. B-b-burglar."

The shrill voice was timid and the harsh, rasping noise overwhelmed it completely.

"Mr. B-b-burglar."

The rasping ceased.

"Hey."

"Dear, good Mr. B-b-burglar, won't you"——

The shrill voice was husky with excitement.

——"wait until we get dressed?"

The clouds parted again and revealed the cracksman looking thoughtfully at his watch.

"Nine p. m.," he mused. "Must finish this job before daylight."

His face grew set and determined.

"No," he declared aloud. "I have no time to wait for a woman to dress."

Distracted as they were, they felt the cold logic of his remarks.—Detroit Tribune.

Old Time Postage.

An old almanac for 1814 gives the following as the rates of postage prevailing at that time: "For every single letter by land, for 40 miles, 8 cents; 90 miles, 10 cents; 150 miles, 12½ cents; 300 miles, 17 cents; 500 miles, 20 cents, and for more than 500 miles, 25 cents. No allowance to be made for intermediate miles. Every double letter is to pay double the said rates; every triple letter, triple; every packet weighing one ounce, at the rate of four single letters each ounce; every ship letter originally received at an office for delivery, 6 cents, magazines and pamphlets, not over 50 miles, 1 cent per sheet; over 50 miles and not exceeding 100 miles, 1½ cents per sheet; over 100 miles, 2 cents per sheet."—New York Tribune.

Quite an Old Town.

STAMFORD, Conn., Oct. 19.—Stamford is celebrating the 250th anniversary of its settlement to-day. Ever since early this morning the principal streets have been thronged with people. The rising sun was greeted with ringing of bells and the roar of cannon. Yesterday the United States gunboats Miantonomah, Atlanta, Dolphin and Vesuvius anchored just outside the harbor and the firing of the national salute, from their heavy guns added to the general din. At 8 o'clock a detachment of marines and blue-jackets landed from the war vessels and marched into city, where three hours later they headed a procession of 5000 men, which moved through principal streets. Every public building, private and business house is decorated with flags and fancy bunting.

Their Interest to Deny It.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—American experts deny that the bullock said to have a diseased lung, and which was landed at Deptford from America, had contagious pleuro-pneumonia. They say that the disease was in all probability nothing more than ordinary pulmonary trouole, the result of confinement on the voyage from America and of the inclement weather during the journey. The bullock was brought by steamer to England, and out of 598 cattle on the vessel, only one died on the voyage. The cause of death was exhaustion.

THE PLAGUES OF EGYPT.

The waters change to blood; next, frogs arise;
Dust turns to lice; and then comes swarms of flies;
Lo! murrain strikes the beasts, but Goschen's free!
Lo! boils beset the men, save, Israel, thee!
Then fires the thundering hail; then locusts bite;
Then comes three days of one unbroken night;
The first-born's midnight death, from cot to throne,
Winds up ten plagues that make Egyptians moan."

These terrible plagues were sent to the Egyptians owing the stubbornness of Pharaoh their king. His great sin was in "not letting the Israelites go."

We have in our midst to-day thousands of men and women who "harden their hearts"; they will not receive wise counsel and timely warnings. These men and women are harboring and nursing the seeds of disease and death. Advice and warnings come to them in thunder tones, that they may be free, sound, healthy and happy, if they but use Paine's Celery Compound. We have all seen the result of this neglect to eradicate the seeds of disease. The plagues come: we see nervousness, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, rheumatism and neuralgia doing their work; and often—very often, paralysis, insanity and death wind up the awful scene.

If our people would avoid disease they must banish all the symptoms which they are now experiencing—they must "let the troubles go," through the use of the only remedy that can work with power and satisfaction.

Paine's Celery Compound is the only medium known that can safely conduct the suffering ones through the troubled sea of disease, and land them safely in the home of health and joy

THE SHRINE OF GRAY.

Stoke Poges, the Place Where the Most Matchless Elegy in English Was Composed.

The Descendants of William Penn as Lords of An Old Country Manor.

STOKE POGES, England, Oct. 10.—I once knew a little old bookworm who haunted the New York libraries, and whose manner, ways and character bore a most striking resemblance to that poet who wrote the most perfect elegy in the English tongue—Thomas Gray.

He was a little, dainty man, with silvered hair and a rounded paunch—his most striking physical characteristic if his fine, pensive blue eyes were not beaming upon you. His clothing was faultless. His manners were courtly. His very pensiveness was benignant and restful. He seemed to exhale an odor of musk and mignonette, and as I used to look at him for an Eighteenth century remainder, the grotesque notion always came that his melancholy sighs of pleasure or disapproval as he fed upon the musty tomes before him, could they be given physical aspect, would conform to the pearly lavender of his ample stock and spotless trousers.

By and by I missed him. His little paunch had gone riot and overcome his stomach with gout or something, and the dainty and learned little bookworm had turned from the tomes of the Astor and Mercantile to the endless tome of eternity. I was sure that here was another Gray. Yes, he had been, I found, supported in academy, college, university and in travel by the thrift and trade of two women, who blindly believed that in time he would astonish the world with the product of his genius. Like Gray, he never earned a penny; his unconscious winsomeness conquered all; his learning was vast, and his indolence was astounding. He had spent a lifetime in exhausting the historic, scientific and philosophic researches and product of others. He left tons of beginnings of great endeavors. If he had been forced into country environment, as was Gray at Stoke Poges, he might have given the world an idyl or an elegy, and then the likeness would have been complete.

The very accident of rural retiracy compelled or induced Thomas Gray to create the one bit of verse which gave him a place among the immortals. From 1727, at the age of ten, when his mother placed him in Eton, and where, tradition has it, he at once began to versify until he expired of inertia and gout in the arms of Dr. James Brown, Master of picturesque old Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, on the 30th of July, 1771—a period of forty-four years—he was as continuously in an atmosphere of books as any man who ever lived. For his day and time he was the most variously and penetratingly learned man in Europe.

He was practically mad for and from book knowledge. His devotion to research seemed an endless intoxication of acquirement for the thing or fact encompassed, rather than that healthful acquisition of knowledge for the uses to which it may be wisely put.

It is no doubt also true that had he not written the "Elegy" his place in the biographies would have been no more than "Thomas Gray, erudite annotator, accomplished translator and sometime companion of Horace Walpole." Because his surpassing genius, through the blessed incident of rural inspiration, for once burst the fetters of sodden bookish enslavement and its consequent physical indolence, he attained fame and left us our most perfect revelation of tenderest emotions and introspections to the universal human heart. The malignancy of Johnson is quite forgiven for the one honest sentence he ever wrote about Gray. "Had Gray written often thus," said the cantankerous master of words, "it had been vain to blame and useless to praise him."

For these and other reasons the one place in all the world—Stokes Poges—which prompted a single, incomparable example of what Gray might have been to literature had he been shut away from the deadening influence of Cambridge books, and perhaps compelled to earn his own living, becomes doubly interesting. Besides the poet resided here for frequent intervals from 1742 to 1750. His grave is here. A stupendous monument stands almost within sight of his old home. The very church in which he worshiped, and the churchyard rendered dear to the hearts of all men by his melodious, mournful elegy, remain today just as he saw and knew them in life. The place, too, has some historic importance, and the manor of Stoke Park was once the home of the descendants of William Penn, many of whom are buried in the family vault in the nave of the mossy old church.

But better than all else, you will find the place a marvelous revelation of the elegy, as you have already felt the elegy to be perfect interpretation of those exquisite emotions which only the rarest scene and associative condition can impart. Our New World affections cling very tenderly to certain Old World shrines. They fold about them a filmy glamour of loving ideality, and cradle them in the soft and misty cories of the heart. I can recall but few which are not better for the distant sightless lullaby, and this is one.

Stoke Poges is a thinly settled village or a thickly settled sylvan parish of Buckinghamshire, not over twenty-five miles west of London and about two miles north of the railway station of Slough, which is in turn the same distance north of Windsor and Castle. It derives its unpoetic name from Amicia de Stoke, who brought the manor in marriage to a certain Robert Pogeis, a knight of the shire in the Twefth century. In the time of Edward III the estate passed into the possession of Sir John Molyns. He had a license from the king to fortify and embattle a mansion here, and it was he who built the picturesque old church made famous by Gray's "Elegy." The manor descended through female heirs to the great earls of Huntingdon, one of whom rebuilt the manor house early in the reign of Elizabeth. Then Sir Edward Coke possessed it and sumptuously entertained Elizabeth here. Remains of this splendid manor house are still standing a few rods northwest of the old church.

Aside from its poetic associations, the manor came to have peculiar interest to Americans when, in 1760, it was purchased from the noble family of Cobham by Thomas Penn, second son of the great founder of Pennsylvania by his second wife, Hannah Callowhill. The grave of William Penn is but nine miles distant, beside the quaint old Quaker meeting house at Jordan's, and all of Penn's descendants through the family line of this son, Thomas, who have since deceased are lying in the Penn family vault in the old Stoke Poges church. Thomas Penn's oldest son, the last John Penn and grandson of the founder, was "a virtuoso, builder and ornamenter of fine residences" and also an author. He built the great house in Kensington Gardens, and in 1789 the present noble mansion of Stoke Hall, which stands a few hundred yards to the south of the church and the old Stoke manor house. At the time of Gray's residence at Stoke Poges old Stoke Hall was the home of Lady Cobham, whose antics to secure acquaintance and subsequent friendly intercourse with the shy poet, who then lived with his mother and aunt in West End cottage, about a mile distant, are preserved in the romantic incidents so felicitously related in Gray's facetious poem of the "Long Story."

The new Stoke Hall was built by John Penn from designs by Wyatt. It is chiefly of brick, stuccoed, and comprises a large square center and two wings. The entrance front is ornamented by a colonnade of ten Doric columns, approached by imposing flights of steps, leading to the famous oval central Marble Hall. The south front, also adorned with a colonnade, has twelve fluted Doric columns, and is 196 feet in length. Many visitors here mistake the old manor house at the north of the church for Gray's former home. It is a beautiful and picturesque half ruin, occupied by the keeper of Stoke Park. Its chimneys are the largest I have seen in any old English manor house, and there are undoubtedly today more bricks in these ivy covered mementos of old time cheer than were originally required in the entire construction of the walls.

John Penn built the modest yet noted mansion of Solitude, still standing on the bank of the Schuylkill, opposite Fairmount, in Philadelphia. Much of the revenue from remaining Pennsylvania "Proprietary" interests was expended here. Vast sums were used upon new Stoke Hall and its library, statuary and paintings. He also rescued from oblivion the actual burial place of Gray by placing the memorial slab against the church wall beneath the vestry window, and erected at his own expense the huge monument to the poet which dominates all the slumberous scene.

On the death of John Penn, Stoke Manor was inherited by his younger brother, Granville Penn, who died at Stoke in 1844. He was an author and was admitted to be one of the most learned English laymen of his time. His oldest son, Granville John Penn, not only "restored" but practically rebuilt Gray's house, West End Cottage, on the West End Road. It was converted into a sumptuous Elizabethan mansion, with every accessory of ornament and beauty. In 1850 it was sold to a gentleman named Darby, but was afterward purchased by A. Allhausen, Esq., whose family and heirs still possess it, and with it the right of use of the Gray family pew in the southwest corner of the south aisle of the old Stoke Poges church.

A curious illustration of the decadence of great families, as well as of vast fortunes even in England, is found in the final extinction of this the most eminent branch of the Penn family, and the diversion of their once great estates. Every one is familiar with the escheating of William Penn's American possessions, in which the "estate of the late proprietaries was vested in the Commonwealth," the payment by Pennsylvania of £130,000 sterling to the devisees and legatees, "in remembrance of the enterprising spirit of the Founder," and the granting by the English parliament, in 1790, of an annuity of £4,000 to his heirs and descendants. All this was in addition to the rich English possessions of the Penns, which included the manor of Stoke. And yet on March 29, 1867, Granville John Penn, lord of the manor of Stoke, died in his chair with an unsigned will in his hands. All his properties were inherited by his brother, Thomas. That gentleman, who was in clerical orders and a man of extraordinary learning, was subsequently declared insane and incapable of managing his estates.

These passed into the tentacles of that great English octopus, the chancery court, and finally, after the death of the unfortunate Thomas, got into the possession of William Stuart, gentleman, of Aldenham Abbey, in the shire of Herts. Today the Penns of Stoke Poges are no more. The romping children of a country squire have banished the tender wraiths that peopled the home and haunts of Gray at West End Cottage, while the lord of the manor—whose parkkeeper now uses as a farmhouse the ancient home of the Cobhams, the Cokes and the lordly house of Hastings, where Queen Elizabeth was royally entertained, and whose own present princely habitation was once the palatial seat of the Penns—is a maker of matches in London!

Still no one can come to the sweet old place without being touched by the tender spirit of repose which broods not alone upon Stoke Poges Church and churchyard, upon the entire Stoke manor, where, half hidden beneath sylvan shades, appear the very place where the poet lived and sang, the picturesque old ruin where once disported lords and ladies, and even royalty itself, and the grander seat of the Penns, but upon the entire historic parish.

All its environment strangely stirs the heart and memory. Over to the south is royal Windsor, through whose successive epochs the whole vast book of English history may be written, from the Victorian era to the time of Arthur, his knights and the Table Round. Milton wrote his "L'Allegro" at Horton, just below. Cooper's Hill, consecrated to the muse of Denham, is nearer still. Herschel made his first great discoveries in astronomy in that old red brick mansion just beyond Slough on the highway to Windsor. Edmund Burke and Edmund Waller lived at near Beaconsfield. Not two hours' walk distant is the grave of William Penn, and quite as near are the famous Burnham Beeches discovered by Gray himself when upon his first visit to the region which his genius was destined to make one of the best loved spots of earth. I visited these, as will all who come to this spot where the "Elegy" was written. But no pen can again so deliciously tell of Burnham Beeches, and the languid, lazy, easy going Gray himself, as did Gray's in this bit from one of his charming letters to his friend Horace Walpole:

"My uncle is a great hunter in imagination; his dogs take up every chair in the house, so I am forced to stand at the present writing; and though the gout forbids his galloping after them in the field, yet he continues still to regale his ears and nose with their comfortable noise and stink. He holds me mighty cheap, I perceive, for walking when I should ride and reading when I should hunt. My comfort amidst all this is that I have at a distance of half a mile, through a green lane, a forest (the vulgar call it a common) all my own, at least as good as so, for I spy no human thing in it but myself. It is a little chaos of mountains and precipices; mountains, it is true, that do not ascend much above the clouds, nor are the declivities quite so amazing as Dover Cliff, but just such hills as people who love their necks as well as I do may venture to climb, and crags that give the eye as much pleasure as if they were more dangerous."

PRESERVING NATIVE ANIMALS.

The Buffalo and Deer to be Seen on a Panhandle Ranch.

Cars run twelve miles in crossing one man's dooryard in the Texas Panhandle. They stop midway. The brakeman shouts "Goodnight," with the emphasis on the first syllable. As the train slows one can see an avenue of shade trees leading south from the neat station for a half a mile. The avenue ends at the broad verandah of a tastily painted mansion. The house is a striking centre of a group of shops, stables and sheds. To all points of the compass stretch the plains as far as vision can follow. The contrast of the well-painted buildings, the green avenue, and the brown plains with their wire fence divisions is sharp. The scene is fascinating. But something more marvellous claims the eye. Buffalo are grazing on the short grass so industriously that they not even raise their great shaggy frontals when the whistle sounds. Moose are looking over the high fence and shambling about. Elk and deer and antelope are scattered over the face of the plain, some lying down, some grazing, some looking with languid interest upon the cars. It is a sight to be seen nowhere else upon the American continent. The younger fawns of the elk and deer and antelope huddled close to the does as if born wild, and not yet fully reconciled to this invasion of the iron horse. But there is no manifestation of alarm upon the part of the older animals. They have grown accustomed to this long, black, clanging, puffing monster passing half-a-dozen times every twenty-four hours. As for the buffalo, they take the change stolidly. One little five days' calf, very shaky and wobbly on its big legs, walks directly under its mother and looks out with lowered head and great eyes.

These are the pets of Mr. Charles Goodnight. And who is Mr. Goodnight? Within 500 miles of Panhandle there is no need to answer that question. A thousand miles away there may be an interest in the personality of the man who counts his acres by the hundred thousand, ships his cattle by the train load, and keeps a whole menagerie for his amusement. To everybody in the cow business Mr. Goodnight is "Charley." He is the greatest of the cattle barons, kindly and frank in speech. More years ago than the clear eyes and good complexion and the black hair and whiskers just beginning to show gray would indicate Mr. Goodnight came to Texas from the Northern State. When the war broke out he said he couldn't fight against his kind, but he would go on the frontier and help keep the Indians back. He became one of the rangers with "Sul" Ross. He was in and through that long, hard campaign of years against the Comanches.

This Panhandle country was the natural home of the buffalo. Here the buffalo bred. From here the herds went forth in search of new pastures. Back here the remnants drifted before the storms of winter, and found refuge till spring. When the plains of Colorado and further north had been swept by the hunter who slaughtered for robes, there were still buffalo in the Panhandle country. And when the cattlemen came in as the Comanches went out of this favored region, there were still scattered small herds of buffalo on the plains. A buffalo calf or two strayed into the herds of cattle and grew up in civilized company. This was the foundation of the buffalo business with Mr. Goodnight. He gave the stray calf, the last of a noble race, a welcome to his roundup. He found company of his kind for him. He added to this beginning from various sources. When fenced pastures took the place of the wild free range, Mr. Goodnight gave his buffaloes the place of honor near ranch headquarters. Thus fostered, the herd has grown on its native heath until it is the finest and largest collection in existence.

The buffalo chose his home well. There is something in climate which encourages the highest degree of health in the cow brute on these plains.

There were thousands of antelope in the Panhandle when Mr. Goodnight first established himself here. But antelopt steak is good. And as the buffalo disappeared the antelope became scarce. Mr. Goodnight came by his collection of antelopes in the most natural manner. When he ran the wires around his great pastures he actually fenced in little bunches of wild anteiope with his cattle. The antelope will not attempt to go over or through a wire fence. They remained in the pastures, growing tamer, until now those near the house come running at the sight of a bucket and hang around after their feed of meal to be petted. The fawn of the antelope take to the new condition readily.

The elk are inclined to jump. It takes more than the ordinary fence of three or four wires to control their movements. About the elk pasture he has drawn thirteen wires. But this makes a fence that will keep wolves and dogs out as well as elk in. "Elk rather like to jump," said Mr. Goodnight. "They will try most anything low. They breed as well in captivity as when free. It is no trouble to raise elk. They calve every year when old enough. The only trouble about keeping them here is that they ought to be where they can do some browsing. They don't do so well on grass alone. Their home is in the mountains where they can get at grapevines and twigs. That is why the moose don't do very well on the prairie. Those I have came from the north, from Manitoba. They belong in a country where they can browse on foliage."—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

NANAIMO NEWS.

Preparations for St. Alban's Bazaar—A Lost Rancher.

NANAIMO, Oct. 23.—The fancy bazaar to be given in the Opera House on Oct. 25th in aid of St. Alban's church, promises well. Art will occupy a conspicuous corner, and a few specimens of the rector's master brush are now on exhibition at Langton's store. The paintings are local scenes, well done. Miss Simpson has contributed a cluster of flowers, very skilfully executed.

Mr. G. Holdnall, the genial secretary of the Nanaimo Equitable Pioneer Society, and Miss Maggie Paterson were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents yesterday morning by Rev. D. A. McRae. The interesting ceremony was witnessed by many friends.

Chief Constable Stewart received information from Lasqueti Island yesterday stating that a man named Ignatio Millan is supposed to have lost his life there. Millan went hunting a few days ago and has not returned. The chief's informants could not find any trace of him. It is unusual for ranchers to stay out over night, and it is feared that he has met with some accident.

Messrs. Morgan & Comerford, tailors, of Commercial street, are extending their premises through increasing business.

Mr. W. Horne and party returned from Jarvis Inlet yesterday, where they have been prospecting. They struck it rich this time, if the specimens they brought down with them are indications.

The Y.M.C.A. football team was to have held a meeting last night to select a team to play Victoria, shortly expected here. There was no meeting, but arrangements were made to organize a team so that visitors will not be disappointed.

Singular and Horrible.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 20.—The steamer City of New York of the Inman Line, which left New York on Oct. 12th for Liverpool, was entering her berth in Alfred dock at Birkenhead, at 11 last night, when a frightful and peculiar accident occurred. Space between the vessel and the quay is allowed for lighters, and communication with the dock is by a long gangway across the space. The steamer having been berthed, seven officers of the Customs service started across the gangway towards the vessel; at the same time about thirty of the crew started on the same gangway for the shore. They met in the centre, apparently without having noticed each other's approach, and collided with crushing force, tumbling against each other and bursting the guard rails of the gangway. The whole of the two parties, customs officers and crew, fell into the water and the shouts, cries and execrations of injured and drowning, added to the darkness, made the scene one of terrible confusion and horror. The spectators hastened with life belts, buoys and boats to rescue the men struggling in the water and succeeded in saving all the customs officers and a number of the crew. Of those saved a few had been severely crushed, and otherwise injured, and one has since died. Whether more lives were lost will be known at the enquiry which will be held probably to-morrow. At present nine men are believed to be missing and a diver is searching for the bodies.

Horrors of War at Homestead.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Oct. 20.—At 2.30 this morning Deputy-Sheriff Ferguson and Cunningham discovered flames issuing from the basement of the largest boarding house in town, conducted by Mrs. O'Neil, corner of Third avenue and City Farm lane. Non-union workmen at the Carnegie Homestead to the number of 125 were sleeping in the house at the time. The deputies chased a man seen running from the rear of the building and fired several shots at him, but without effect. They returned and extinguished the fire. They discovered a quantity of oily waste, such as is used in packing car journal boxes. It had been placed under the rear of the house and was burning fiercly. In a few moments it would doubtless have placed the fire beyond control. Chief Deputy-Sheriff Ritchie will place special guards over every non-union boarding house in the town to-night. President Gompers will meet with the Homestead strikers this afternoon.

The Fortune of War.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 20.—At least one American was ill-treated in the recent shaking up in Venezuela. George F. Underhill, formerly U.S. consul at Ciudad Bolivar, Venezuela, is the complainant. Mr. Underhill is the owner of a small repairing plant at Ciudad Bolivar, on the Orinoco river. While engaged in this pursuit he complains that he was thrown into prison and otherwise roughly treated, for no other reason apparently, than to prevent his lending aid through the medium of the repair shop to the revolutionists. He was arrested by the representatives of the old government. Mr. Underbill's claim will be investigated, and if the facts are found to be as reported, a demand for proper redress will be made from the new government. Capt. White of the Concord will make the investigation. Orders were sent to him to-day at Colon to proceed at once to the town named, if it is possible to make the voyage to that point.

The Biter Bitten.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 20.—One of the attractions at the Interstate Fair, which closed here last Saturday, was a pair of trained elks with large antlers, broken to harness. Yesterday morning Wm. McFarland, their trainer, was driving them around the track when one of them became obstinate. Unhitching them he gave the beast a terrible whipping. The elk ran bellowing about the grounds pursued by McFarland, until brought to bay in a fence corner. As the man advanced the elk lowered its head and rushed at him. The sharp point of one of the antlers pierced the body. He is still alive, but will die. The owner of the elk sawed the antlers off after the accident.

WAYS OF GETTING RAIN.

The Different Methods Pursued by Oriental and Occidental.

Japan Advertiser.]

The scarcity of rain in several Chinese provinces has led in some instances to attacks upon missionaries, and generally to the performance of elaborate ceremonies. In Ningpo the people select a ditch, which they call the dragon's ditch; they then assemble and beat gongs, with the result that every live creature, except man, gets out of the way as speedily as possible. The first animate object that seeks shelter in the ditch is called the dragon, is worshipped, and afterwards carried to the local officials, who also have to adore the captive, toad, urab, turtle, snake or whatever it may be. Com pare this perfunctory method with the business-like procedure described in the following from an American paper:

The action of the Mexican Government in its movement toward confiscating the property of the Catholic Church in this country can be appreciated in a degree when it is known to what absurb extremes the ignorant Mexican official will go on some occasions. Some days ago at Torreon, on the Mexican Central Railway, a man was brought to the station all cut and hacked to pieces. He had been taken for a conjurer and was being punished for causing the severe drought there last year. This, however, is not a marker to what was done at Castanas a few days ago. In the department of Castanas there had been no rain for nearly a year, and people were brought to such a pass that they were actually dying of thirst, to say nothing of the total destruction of all crops and other agricultural industries. El Pueblo Catolico, of New San Salvador, prints a number of resolutions promulgated by the principal alcalde of the town and department of Castanas. They are as follows:

"Considering that the Supreme Creator has not behaved well in this province, as in the whole of last year only one shower of rain fell, that in this summer, notwithstanding all the processions, prayers and praises, it has not rained at all, and consequently the crops of Castanas, on which depend the prosperity of the whole department, are entirely ruined, it is decreed:

"Article 1—If within the peremptory period of eight days from the date of this decree rain does not fall abundantly no one will go to mass or say prayers.

"Article 2—If the drought continues eight days more the churches and chapels shall be burned, and missals, rosaries and other objects of devotion will be destroyed.

"Article 3.—If finally, in a third period of eight days it shall not rain, all the priests, friars, nuns and saints, male and female, will be beheaded, and for the present permission is given for the commission of all sorts of sin, in order that the Supreme Creator may understand with whom he has to deal."

The most remarkable feature of this affair is that four days after these resolutions were passed the heaviest rainfall known for years was precipitated on the burning community.

An Eclipse To-day

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—A partial eclipse of the sun occurred at noon today, when three fifths of old Sol were in obscurity. The dark disc of the moon cut the edge of the sun at exactly 12:05 p.m. The last trace of eclipse disappeared at 4:08 p.m. The eclipse was visible throughout all North and Central America, except in the remote section of Alaska.
